

NEW ABSTRACT

A circuit and a method for operation of a gas discharge lamp includes a switching transformer having a switch, a converter, inductor and a controller in a control loop for measuring a lamp voltage and setting a desired power. The switching transformer further includes a second control loop used for adjusting the switching transformer to individual lamp conditions.